LUZON DEFENDERS STALL JAPS

COUNCIL SETS UP $6,300 CITY DEFENSE FUND

Money to Be Used to Safeguard City's Water Supply And Police Equipment.

PATROL UNIT PLANNED

Regular Inspection of Vital Public Property Planned As Precaution.

Making good an agreement entered into on Dec. 17, Mansfield's city council last night at its last meeting of the year appropriated $6,300 to be used to safeguard the city's water storage and distribution system and the police radio transmitter.

At the previous meeting, council was asked to appropriate the fund but was unable to take action because of parliamentary regulations. Council had been given short notice of the emergency meeting and the absence of one councilman prevented all from waiving their right of notice.

Most of the money appropriated last night, $6,000 of it, will be used to erect wire fencing around five of the city's important water wells, the Maxwell springs pumping station and the Woodland reservoir, city officials said.

Part of this $6,000 will also be used to place wire grills on the doors and windows of the Hedges and North Main street pumping stations.

Officials pointed out that the fencing and grills are expected to at least stall saboteurs in attempts to contaminate or destroy the city's water system. Plans are being made to set up a patrol which would visit the vital points in the water system every ten or 15 minutes.

Although it was originally planned that volunteer civilian defense workers would patrol the important parts of the water system, council has since been asked by the administration to discard this plan and to make temporary appointment of five more patrolmen to act as a special patrol. No action has been taken by council on the proposal.

The remaining $300 will be used to transfer the police radio transmitter from the basement floor of the municipal building to a more protected place on the third floor.

N-J Publishes Its Annual Year-End Edition Tomorrow

The News-Journal's annual year-end edition tomorrow will bring readers a wealth of information about what has happened in 1941 and forecasts of what may happen in 1942.

Besides the big special edition Wednesday, there will be a holiday edition New Year day which will be published in the morning and delivered before noon. It will have the latest news on the war fronts.

Interesting features of the year-end edition Wednesday will include a chronology of the important happenings of the year in Mansfield and Richland county, a business and industrial report for the city for 1941 and forecasts for the new year, pictures of outstanding 1941 news events, and separate stories about many of the highlights of 1941.

State and national events which splashed headlines across the front pages of newspapers during the year will be reviewed for readers along with the city and county happenings. They will all add up to enough interesting reading to last over the New Year holiday Thursday.

Bombs Fail to Break Morale In Manila—People Just Get Madder and Madder and Dig In, Reporter Observes

By RUSSELL BRINES

MANILA—(AP)—This is the notebook of a reporter's observations on a bombed city:

In the two raids since Manila was declared an open city Manilans felt a wave of impotence, then they got mad . . . and madder . . . and now they are more firmly united than ever before. They are on their own now and are rolling up their sleeves with grim realism, ready for hard times still to come. . . . President Roosevelt's assurances gave them a real lift. . . .

The city's morale can't be broken and air raids only strengthen it.

To sense this you only have to hear Filipinos express anger when they see the Santa Domingo church in ruins . . . or watch energetic labor gangs constructing shelters. . . . But some protection has been provided and Manilans are preparing. . . . The bravado which caused downtown crowds to watch raiding planes at first is gone. . . . Now they run like the devil, unashamed, for shelter. . . . They find it in doorways, behind walls, in gutters.

Except for raids, though, the city is getting back to normal . . . street cars and buses are running . . . taxi drivers are getting back their old habit of reckless driving

A new restaurant has opened up . . . its proprietors call it "Nichevo," say that is Russian for "never mind." . . . Night clubs are reopening. . . . The people are getting the idea that worry only complicates matters.

Law and order are well regulated. . . .

The city shows its scars only in spots and in its sweeping panorama Manila is untouched . . . only more solemn. . . . Landmarks best known to tourists are much the same except for wartime tape and sandbags.

COUNCIL ADDS 2 MORE MEN TO TRAFFIC SQUAD

Creates Seven-Man Division to Handle Auto Problems; Applicants Sought.

Two more traffic patrolmen were added to Mansfield traffic squad last night as city council, in a surprise move, voted their appointment at its final meeting for 1941.

Although other council members had favored letting the ordinance for the new traffic men go over until next year, Councilman Arthur L. Croak, chairman of the traffic committee, insisted upon its consideration at last night's meeting.

All members voted in favor of the move. Councilman George C. Kyle raised the question of whether a higher salary should be paid for "rookie" policemen but offered no objection to the addition of new traffic men. The salary question was not discussed.

The salaries of the new traffic patrolmen will probably be paid from the parking meter fund although no specific mention was made in the legislation. Advertisements have been made for applicants to take a civil service examination for the new positions and the exams will be held on Jan. 16 at 7 p. m. at John Simpson junior high school. Applicants must be between 21 to 40 years of age, have a minimum height of five feet, nine inches, and must have had some experience in the operation and riding of motorcycles.

The addition will bring Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals' squad up to seven men. The traffic division came into being in August when council authorized the establishment of a five-man squad. Since its organization, it has taken over the investigation of all motor accidents and the handling of all city traffic problems.

It is understood that one of the OPM Officials Study 50-Per Limit to Save Tires.

AKRON —(U.P.)— President William O'Neil, of the Gentral Tire and Rubber company, was advised today that OPM officials are considering seriously his suggestion for a federal emergency speed limit of 50 miles an hour for automobiles to conserve tires.

O'Neil made the suggestion to Willard Melburn, chief of the rubber products division of the office of production management, and in a letter replying to the suggestion Melburn said it was under consideration.

O'Neil said that tires on an automobile which is driven within the 50 mile per hour limit should give service for 30,000 miles but that a 70 mile per hour speed would cut the mileage to 5,000.

FBI CALL LOOMS FOR CHIEF BATES

Council Passes Resolution Granting Police Head Leave of Absence.

The possibility that Police Chief Meade K. Bates may be called for service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the near future was emphasized last night when city council passed a resolution granting Bates leave of absence "for the duration" in case of emergency.

Bates, who is a graduate of the National Police Academy, went to Cleveland today upon the request of FBI officials to confer upon the possibility of his being taken into the federal police service.

The resolution, passed by council, will enable Bates to go into the federal service and to assume his post as police chief upon his return. A former resolution guaranteed jobs for city employes in the "armed forces" but made no mention of other war work.

Bates graduated from the National Police Academy in 1937 and has returned annually to take refresher courses. About 600 graduates of the school are in Washington at present taking special training courses before entering the ranks of the FBI.

Other city officials say that they believe Bates will be called shortly after the first of the year and are making arrangements for that possibility. They said that one of the three police captains would probably be named temporary chief and that a lieutenant would be moved up to the post of captain and one of the patrolmen would be named a lieutenant.

GANDHI QUITS

Resigns Leadership of India Party, to Oppose Violence.

BARDOLI, India —(AP)— Mohandas K. Gandhi, long the leader of India's independence movement, was relieved today of his leadership of the All-India Congress party at his own request.

Gandhi decided to retain his freedom to oppose all violence and could not go along with the majority of the party's executive committee in a step toward cooperation in Britain's war effort.

Gandhi, in whom millions of Indians place their hopes for independence, has held unswervingly to his principles of non-violenct civil disobedience.

After a long wrangle behind closed doors, the committee was said to have voted to relieve Gandhi of responsibility for directing the party's program and policy.

LINDBERGH ASKS TO SERVE U. S.

Volunteers For Air Force In Letter to Chief Of Division.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Former Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who resigned last April from the air corps reserve, has volunteered his services to the United States army air forces, it was disclosed today.

Lindbergh offered his services in a letter to Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces.

The one-time "Lone Eagle" resigned his reserve colonelcy after President Roosevelt criticized his isolationist views and compared him to the "copperheads" of the Civil war era.

Arnold, confirming Lindbergh's offer, said it expressed his "deep desire to help the country along the lines in which he trained himself for many years." There was no indication, however, what action would be taken on Lindbergh's offer.

"Lindbergh's act indicates a definite change from his isolationist stand and expresses his deep desire to help the country along the lines in which he trained himself for many years," Arnold said.

HUNT PHANTOM PASSENGER IN RAILROAD DEATH

Officers Start Search After Second Train Conductor Disappears From Car.

(By International News Service)

DAYTON — Although one suspect was held, law enforcing agencies today pressed their search throughout southwestern Ohio for a phantom passenger believed to have slain two Big Four railroad conductors in five months.

Both killings took place during passenger train runs over the short distance from Cincinnati through Middletown to Dayton—about 60 miles.

Latest victim was William B. Faber of Cleveland, who disappeared Sunday night after his train stopped at Dayton.

The first victim, railroad officials said, disappeared last August. His body eventually was found on the banks of the Little Miami river. There was nothing at that time to indicate that he might have been murdered.

When the train with Faber in charge stopped at Middleton Sunday, Fabor told a brakeman that he was going to investigate two empty coaches behind the locomotive, where he thought someone was riding

The coaches were so-called dead-heads being hauled empty for use at a division point. When the train reached Carlisle, Faber could not be found. Searchers discovered his battered and bloodstained hat on a floor of the coach. Nearby was a broken bottle. Faber's change, $1.80, was scattered about the floor.

Theodore Battle, 28, a Dayton Negro found in one of the coaches, had been detained since, but has contended he knows nothing of Faber's disappearance.

Paul Jones, a railroad detective, said after preliminary investigation, that Faber probably disappeared in the eight miles between Middleton and Carlisle, where he was first missed. During this time the train passed over the Miami river, which probably will be dragegd for his body.

General Says Everything's Quiet at Front

Tokyo Revises Date For 'Capture' Of Manila From New Year's To Jan. 10; Japan Claims Sea Victories; New Drive Expected.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — General Douglas MacArthur urged today that retaliatory measures be taken against the Japanese for the recent bombings of Manila, which he characterized as "completely violative of all the civilized processes of international law."

BULLETIN

Dispatches from the Philippines today said that American fighter planes had reappeared in the Luzon fighting, indicating that air reinforcements may have reached the islands. American and Filipino defenders have been handicapped by a lack of air strength.

(By Associated Press)

A three-word bulletin from U. S. army headquarters indicated today that Japan's invasion armies had been fought to a standstill within 36 hours of the deadline on their boast that they would capture Manila "before new year's."

"Everything is quiet," said General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in the briefest communique of the war. The bulletin was issued at 11:45 a. m., Manila time.

From the nearest point, the invaders still had more than 50 miles to go to reach the Philippine capital.

A Tokyo military spokesman asserted that operations in the 24-day-old battle of Luzon island were moving according to schedule, but changed the new year's date for the capture of Manila. This time he predicted its fall "before Jan. 10."

Simultaneously, a Japanese naval communique said Japanese aircraft had sunk a U. S. destroyer and two submarines and damaged 26 merchant ships in Luzon waters between Dec. 22-28.

Bloody Japanese troop losses in land fighting at Mauban, 60 miles air-line southeast of Manila, were reported in dispatches from the Philippine capital.

American and Filipino shore defenders there were said to have slaughtered the Japanese in great batches as they swarmed ashore on Christmas morning. Unending waves of Japanese reinforcements ultimately compelled the defenders to fall back to new lines.

Some observers expected that a synchronized land and sea drive on Manila was imminent and that Japanese naval forces would attempt to silence the big guns of Corregidor island fortress, at the entrance to Manila harbor, then sail directly up the bay to the capital.

Manila dispatches said the two-hour aerial assault on Corregidor yesterday, in which four Japanese bombers were shot down, was generally reported as the opening salvo in an attempt to reduce the fortress.

Persistent reports circulated in Manila that Japanese warships attempted to approach the rocky island fortress during yesterday's air assaults, but army headquarters said it had no confirmation.

Meanwhile, Australian newspapers said British Prime Minister Winston Churchill has advised Australian Prime Minister John Curtin that Britain and her allies

SOMETHING BIG: Dutch Hear Rumor Of New Pacific Drive

BULLETIN

DUTCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, N. E. I.—(U.P.)—Lieut. Gen. Hien Ter Poorten, Dutch East Indies commander, said today that he has been "deeply impressed" by latest indications from Washington that material support will reach the Dutch East Indies in time to stand off even a large scale Japanese assault on the vital Indies positions.

(By International News Service)

BATAVIA, N. E. I.—Dutch air and sea fighters carried on their offensive against the Japanese today, cheered by news that Australian bombers had set a Jap cruiser afire and by rumors of "something big" in the way of an anti-Axis drive impending in the southern Pacific.

The Batavia press was unanimous in stating belief that "something big" is in the offing and that "Allied reinforcements" will be sent to the southern Pacific area.

The papers said that the reinforcements were "on their way to the Pacific" and that a general offensive against Japan could be expected soon.

But the press warned the public against impatience and pointed out the drive could be launched only after thorough preparation.

When the drive begins, the press said, "the blow which will be given to the Jap will make him dizzy."

SMASHED: British Tanks Hit Axis Attempt At Libya Stand

(By Associated Press)

Britain's desert armies in a violent two-day tank battle have smashed an Axis attempt to make a new stand after a 420-mile retreat from the Egyptian border, frontline dispatches said today, and British vanguards were reported pushing on toward Tripolitania, the western part of Libya and the last piece of Premier Mussolini's African empire.

British Middle East headquarters said 42 Axis tanks were knocked out of action in a battle south of Agedabia, 80 miles below captured Bengasi, and declared that "our pressure on the enemy is being maintained."

With Cirenaica, or Eastern Libya, conquered, British troops were said to be advancing somewhere along the road to El Agheila, 80 miles beyond Agedabia, on the coastal highway skirting the Gulf of Sirte. El Agheila is near the Tripolitania border.

Axis versions of the Agedabia tank battle said 74 British tanks and armored cars had been destroyed, but neither the German nor Italian communique claimed to have halted the British sweep westward.

Mr. Pastarmadjieff's New Year Greeting Has 2-Fold Purpose

WILLARD—"Have you started the New Year out right? Here is your chance to start right now!"

That's the novel New Year greeting sent to friends by I. K. Pastarmadjieff, Willard tavern proprietor.

Enclosed with the greeting is a Defense Savings booklet with two 10-cent stamps attached.

"I started it—now you finish it," the message concludes.

Pastarmadjieff, who came here from Mansfield 28 years ago, says he has distributed 200 of the books to his friends. He figures that if those 200 persons fill them, the total given to the government for defense will amount to $1,000.

"I spent $40 for the stamps," he says," and the government will get $1,000 from my original investment, if every one fills his book."

A native of Bulgaria, but an American citizen since 1914, Pastarmadjieff said:

"I have a few Defense bonds myself, but I figured the best way I could help my adopted country was to get other people to do the same thing."

He said he gave the books only to people whom he thought would finish them but with the purchase of additional stamps.

Pastarmadjieff, wo operates the Bohemian Beer Garden here, has five children, one a son, 21, who is in the U. S. army. He is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss.

War Fund Up To $17,475 As Restaurant, Club Contribute

The war emergency fund of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross rose to $17,475.22 today as yesterday's contributions including the day's receipts from a local restaurant and a night club added $1,275.22 to the fund being raised to lend service to the armed forces in American war zones and alleviate civilian suffering.

Parkway restaurant receipts for 24 hours amounted to $258.17 while the Ritz Night club turned over an even $100 to the county chapter for the period the club was in operation from Monday at 5:30 a. m. to Tuesday at 2:30 a. m. When the establishment was closed.

Both the Parkway and Ritz donated all food and service throughout the day with the Ritz management, Anthony Mollica and James Villella, personally contributing to make their donation an even $100.

Receipts at the Parkway were handled by Red Cross volunteer workers at the request of the management, James Georgopulos and George Margaritus, and the waitresses donated their tips to the cause.

have decided on a definite plan of action in the Pacific which will enormously improve their striking power against Japan.

For reasons of military secrecy, no details were disclosed, but a government spokesman was quoted as saying:

"Insofar as it affects Australia, the Pacific position has improved immeasurably."

On the Malayan front, British Far East headquarters reported that Japanese invasion columns striking through the jungles had made a strong attack on British lines north of Singapore but suffered heavy casualties.

The British said Japanese losses ran as high as 40-for-one in bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

London dispatches said British troops had withdrawn from Ipoh, 190 miles north of Singapore, and taken up new defense positions between the mountains and the sea to escape a threatening pincer movement from the north and northwest.

A British communique reported that Japanese warplanes hacked at Singapore's $400,000,000 defenses four times during the night, inflicting "some damage to thatched buildings."

British military quarters made no effort to discount the danger of a reported Japanese threat to Sumatra, across the narrow Strait of Malacca from Singapore, where the Japanese were said to have bombed Medan, the chief city, and attempted parachute landings.

Sumatra's fertile plateaus contain some of the world's largest British and Dutch rubber plantations and vast holdings of the Goodyear, Goodrich and United States Rubber companies. The 1940 production totalled 400,000 tons.

However, there were no further reports on the Japanese parachutists, indicating that they had been few in number or swiftly mopped up.

Manila residents, spared further bombing since the first two days of violation of her declared defenselessness, watched anxiously for signs of help from the American mainland as the invaders surged relentlessly against the thin lines of defenders in the hills to the south of the capital.

On the Pacific coast of the United States worried representatives of the Alaskan fishing industry sought naval protection against Japanese marine prowlers.

Mexico cancelled all Japanese commercial fishing licenses.

The Japanese navy claimed the sinking of 16 enemy submarines and the damaging of many others in the western Pacific between Dec. 22 and 28. Japanese naval aircraft shot down 56 enemy planes over Borneo, the south China sea and the Sulu and Celebes seas, the Japanese claimed.

Prepares Annual Message to Congress.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt worked today on a "state of the union" message that congress and a world-wide radio audience will hear next Monday in answer to an aroused demand that Japan be accorded eye-for-eye treatment to repay the murderous assaults on Pearl Harbor and Manila.

The White House withheld official announcement, but it was considered certain that when the second session of the 77th congress goes through the formality of convening on Jan. 5, President Roosevelt will be on the rostrum.

There was intense world interest in the annual congressional message that the chief executive was preparing.

A united nation waited the president's next public appearance. Erstwhile opponents of his foreign policy in both house and senate were demanding today that the American armed forces deal out ruthless retaliation for Japan's treacherous attacks on Hawaii, the Philippines, Wake and Midway.

Japs Reply to Manila Charges.

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless) —(INS)— In answer to published reports that heavy damage was done to churches, schools and public buildings by Japanese spokesman today said:

"Fragments of a bomb might have smashed a church window. After all, we are human beings."

Referring to the status of Manila as an "open city," the spokesman said:

"Why should we go to the trouair raids on Manila, an official air, capturing it in a few days and then reconstructing the city?"

Manila bay, he concluded, will prove to be an "American Dunkirk."

40,000 Japs In Drive On Changsha.

CHUNGKING —(U P)— A Chinese army spokesman reported today that 40,000 Japanese troops are engaged in the offensive toward Changsha and have now crossed the Milo river and are heavily engaged by Chinese troops about 30 miles north of Changsha.

The spokesman said that the Japanese aim was either to divert the Chinese from an offensive on the Kwangtung front or to capture Changsha.

Women's League Plans Part In War Emergency

Complying with the state and national organization movement to become "wardens of democracy" for the duration of the war, the Mansfield League of Women Voters has set up the first in a series of programs designed to keep local clubs informed as to the workings of their local, state and national governments.

Women's clubs throughout the city have been invited to send representatives to the first meeting in the Chamber of Commerce room, Monday, Jan. 5, at 7:30 p. m. when civilian defense, Red Cross activities and home service to the soldiers will be emphasized by three speakers.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of Civilian Defense, will speak on "The Discipline and Preparedness of Every Citizen." Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of the Red Cross, will discuss "The Red Cross In War Time," while Mrs. Blanche Holmes will speak on "Home Service for Our Soldiers." Mrs. Holmes is president of the Home Service club composed largely of mothers of men in uniform.

The second meeting, Feb. 2, will introduce leaders in Mansfield and Richland county welfare work in a panel discussion, and the following program in March will concern government and foreign policy.

Continue Advance After 2-Day Battle; Russians Move Ahead Against Nazis.

fantry were added to the thousands of prisoners the British have rounded up in the desert campaign, a Cairo bulletin said.

On the Russian war front, Soviet dispatches credited Red army soldiers with blasting the Germans from important defenses on the Oka river—apparently in the Orel-Kaluga sector, south of Moscow—and Russian parachute troops were reported dropping behind German lines to hamper the Nazi retreat.

Dispatches to the newspaper Pravda said the Russians had broken through an elaborately fortified zone where the Germans had built trenches, dugouts, barbed-wire entanglements and blockhouses along the Oka river.

Soviet forces scored breakthroughs in four other populated places, the dispatches said, adding:

"Our units keep steadfastly advancing. Great efforts are being exerted by the Germans to check the panicky flight of their troops."

Red Star, the army newspaper, said Soviet parachutists were dealing heavy blows behind the German lines, with specially trained troops blowing up 29 bridges on routes of retreat.

London military quarters reported that Adolf Hitler's Crimean armies were continuing attacks on Sevastopol, but said the siege-bound Russian garrison there showed no signs of weakening.

Berlin reports pictured heavy fighting raging on the southern (Ukraine) front, declaring that a Soviet battalion had been wiped out and that Axis forces had beaten off a Russian attack launched in a blizzard.

Report Nazi Column Cut Off By Serbs.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Information reaching Ankara says that a German column has been cut off by Serbian guerilla forces in the Montengrin mountains north of Cetinje, the British said today, acording to CBS.

The broadcast reported a general German withdrawal from the central and southwest provinces in Yugoslavia, with two German divisions imperilled by Yugoslav "freedom fighters" well equipped with heavy and light and machineguns.

Talk of Scrapping of Famed Eiffel Tower.

BERLIN— (By Official German Wireless)—(INS)—Fate of the famed Eiffel Tower in Paris has been "rendered uncertain" in a new campaign of scrap metal collection, the German radio reported from Vichy today.

The broadcast said that a committee has been appointed to "propose removal of certain edifices presenting no artistic or historic interest."

"Removal of the Eiffel Tower, which has been a familiar landmark in the French capital since the world exhibition of 1889, and utilization of its materials in the collection campaign is warmly advocated by Henry Bordeaux, famous novelist and member of the French Academy," the German radio said.

Nazis Report Cold In Turkey, Balkans.

BERLIN — (Official broadcast recorded by (AP))—The blizzards and severe cold which are hampering the armies on the Russian front also are being felt in the Balkans and in Turkey, according to dispatches received here today.

Reports from Sofia, Bulgaria, said the temperature there had dropped to four degrees below zero (Farenheit), while 22 below was recorded in eastern Bulgaria and western Macedonia. Snowstorms also swept through this area.

From Ankara, Turkey, came news of blizzards in eastern and central Anatolia which left six-foot snowbanks, disrupted communications and cut off many towns and villages from the outside world.

SOLDIERS LEAVE

Air Associates Operates Again Under Private Management.

BENDIX, N. J.—(U.P.)—The last soldier was out of the Air Associates, Inc., plant today, and for the first time since Oct. 31 it was producing war orders under private management.

Under Secretary of War Robert Patterson telegraphed Col. Roy M. Jones to relinquish the plant to its managers. A contract raising wages and establishing a modified union shop was signed last Friday by the Air Associates board of directors and the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Draft Boards Get Ready To Summon 28-35ers For Army

Acting on orders from state selective service headquarters, Richland county draft boards today prepared to call men from 28 to 35 years old for their physical examinations and induction into service.

The order will affect more than 700 Richland countains who were placed in the 1-H clasification and temporarily deferred because they were 28 or over last July 1.

Board clerks pointed out that the order will include only the men in the 1-H and 4-E-H groups since the boards have received no information concerning the re-classification of registrants placed in the 3-A classification because of dependents. Conscientious objectors past 28 were classified as 4-E-H.

The boards still have a few men under 28 awaiting examination and it is expected they will be called first. Clerks said they were unable to predict when the first group of registrants past 28 will be inducted.

Lieut. Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, said: "Hereafter no distinction will be made by local boards in classifying registrants over 28 years of age and under 28, and unless and until regulations provide deferment on account of age, no registrant will be deferred by reason of his age."

the outer provinces of the N. E. I.

"Messages about the machine-gunning of fishing boats have come in from various districts," a communique said.

One Dutch plane was destroyed and its pilot killed in a Jap attack on the Tarakan airdrome in Borneo, it was announced, while a Dutch tanker was set afire by Japanese aircraft but brought safely to port.

The high command meanwhile probed apparently baseless reports of a landing by Jap parachutists on Mandailing in northeastern Sumatra. (A British radio said the reports probably were based on a misunderstanding" resulting from a Jap air raid on Medan.)

The flying Aussies swooped down on the Japanese cruiser off the Celebes islands, on the eastern end of the East Indies archipelago. They were reported to be flying American-made Hudson bombers in this first reported activity of the Australian air arm in the Pacific.

Dutch airmen bombed Miri, important oil center in Sarawak, the British protectorate in northern Borneo, which has been invaded by the Japanese. They reported scoring one direct hit and several "near misses" on a Japanese transport and said they had shot down two Nipponese planes.

CHAPTER XXIX

Despite complete confidence in "her Andy," Carol Delaine found herself deeply troubled over Aunt Cassie's tidings. She never had seen this Mrs. Corwin, but her aunt's description of the rooming house proprietor was not alluring, even though it was based on second-hand information. It was an additional shock because, for some reason, it never occurred to her that Andy might be involved in affairs like that. He seemed to be interested in men friends only, so far as she knew. But did she know?

She was greatly heartened and inwardly excited when Mrs. Steel admitted somewhat reluctantly that Nettie Corwin had known Carol's mother. At least that was Andre's alibi. In telling that, Aunt Cassie scrupulously avoided hurting the girl's feelings by any unpleasant references to Andre. But it was evident her prejudice against the newcomer was in no degree lessened.

Until she heard this, Carol had decided to refrain from letting Andy know that the gossip had reached her ears. Now she had a yearning to meet Mrs Corwin, to talk to her about the mother she scarcely remembered. Andy never had told her much Perhaps Mrs Corwin could and would. And so, when there was a suitable opportunity, she surprised her father by seating herself on his knee and placing her hands on his shoulders She was smiling as she looked at him steadily.

"I hear you're being a bad boy, Andy"

"What have I done now?"

"You've been . . . carrying on." Aunt Cassie's definition came helpfully to mind.

"So? Cassandra or the housetops?"

"Auntie."

"I suppose she would. Are you going to start on me now?"

"Oh, Andy, you know I never would! I wouldn't have said a word, only Aunt Cassie told me that Mrs. Corwin knew—Mama. I've never met anyone who did, except you. Can you tell me?"

"There isn't much to tell. Mrs. Corwin was on the stage and knew your mother. The four of us . . . I mean Sam Corwin . . . were good friends then. I've seen them now and again."

"And that was how Mrs. Corwin happened to come here," Carol guessed thoughtfully. To her surprise, Andy frowned.

"I'm going to ask a favor of you, ducklet. Just for the present, please don't mention your speculations. I have a reason . . . don't want to talk about it. Will you, please?"

"Why, of course, darling! Anything you say But couldn't I meet Mrs Corwin?" Andy appeared both uncomfortable and evasive.

"Oh, sure . . . but it's like this. I can understand how you feel, but you won't find Nettie—I mean she won't appeal to you very much. I don't mean by that she's a woman you shouldn't know. Nettie has that overworked heart of gold, even if her exterior could stand a little buffing. I don't give a tinker's damn what people have to say about me as the situation stands at present. When are you going on your trip?

"Next Thursday morning."

"Then let's not do anything about it until you come back. I want you to know Nettie and I'll see that you do. I still have a reason. Okay?"

"Of course."

"Not mad at the old man?"

"Don't be silly!" She kissed him and left him to his reflections

Carol did not allow the matter to distress her; she had a more serious problem to consider. After all, Thursday was only four days away. Siloam Springs meant two days' driving. She must be more than careful since Charlie was so nearly helpless.

The trip itself was no light undertaking. There had been some difficulty over getting in touch with Mrs Lennon. Carol disliked the idea of writing her a note or using the telephone, since the Lennons were on a party line and there was no knowing who might be listening in. She solved it by asking Amanda in a brief call to meet her at Edgar's drug store. There over two cups of hot chocolate, they had a conference which seemed to rouse no particular interest.

Carol was to be at Amanda's house at exactly ten o'clock in the morning and would not leave her own home until a quarter of, just in case anything went amiss at the last moment. Amanda would have Charlie ready, but would not let him know where he was going. She was confident that she could go through with her part of it.

Andy was worried when he discovered that Carol intended to leave in her car for a two-day trip. He was not at all convinced that she had enough experience at the wheel to be trying a tour by herself. It didn't seem safe.

"I'm sorry I can't tell you about it," she remarked sweetly, "but secrecy seems to run in this family. I'll be quite all right."

"I know. But would it be too much of a favor if I asked you to wire me or call when you get to the end of your trip? I guess I'm the proverbial old hen."

"I'll do that." Carol made a mental notation; the call would come from some place near Siloam.

"Well, I guess that will have to do. But be careful."

Aunt Cassie was even more disturbed as her niece gave her a hasty farewell.

"Mighty funny you have to be so mum about where you're going. I don't at all like the idea of your traipsing over the country alone in a car. Don't pick up any hitchhikers on the road. They might murder you and take your car. I still don't like the notion of not knowing where you are. I'm surprised at Andy letting you go."

"I'll tell you all about it later, dear." Carol laughed a trifle nervously as she took a final peep into her bag to see if she had that book of travelers' checks she had purchased yesterday at Centertown. Five hundred dollars seemed a great deal of money. "I may get involved in a scandal myself, Auntie, but I'm going to save you as long as possible. Good-bye."

She drove her car as near to the Lennon's back door as she could and was greatly relieved when Amanda threw it open and gave her a reassuring nod.

Charlie was sitting on the dining room couch. He smiled delightedly when Carol entered.

"Gosh! It seems awful good to see you again, Carol. It's been a long time since you were here. I couldn't figure why Mom wanted me to put on my other suit this morning and I wouldn't do it until she told me why."

Carol's heart sank. But it must be that Charlie didn't know everything. If he did, he was pleased over it

"You mean she told you that your girl friend, or one of them, was coming to see you?" she asked lightly.

"She told me you were going to take me for a ride in your new car. I think that's swell of you. And it's so warm, too. I haven't had a ride in a long time."

"Then we'll take a good long spin." Amanda had excused herself for a moment and Carol had heard her mounting the stairs. She could guess why. "If I give you your cane and my arm, could you get in the car while we're waiting for your mother? I want to see her a minute before I go."

"Why, sure! I can make it easy."

He was seated in the coupe when his mother emerged from the kitchen door carrying a battered suitcase with bulging sides. Carol hurried to help her.

"We'll shove that in behind where it won't be in our way," she said. Charlie's eyes widened.

"What is that?" he demanded suspiciously. "Why are we taking Wige's old suitcase, Mom?"

"Oh, it's just some things," his mother called from behind the car. Carol saw that her face was working strangely. Amanda had been under too great a strain; she was on the point of breaking down at the crucial moment. Banging the compartment lid down and latching it, Carol walked around and slid into her place under the wheel.

"Charlie," she told him with perfect calmness, "I'm kidnapping you." She turned and faced him squarely.

"What do you mean? Where are you taking me?" There was something like childish fright in his eyes.

"To a place called Siloam Springs, dear. They're waiting for you and they're going to help you get well."

"Does Wige know?" he flashed at her. "He won't like it! I . . . I'm not going, Carol. He wanted to send me and I told him I'd never let him. And I won't let you! Let me out! Let me out!"

"Charlie!" Amanda called through the door The boy was fumbling hysterically at the latch. Mrs Lennon had regained her composure and spoke with sharp authority. "Everything's planned and everything's all right. With Wilbur, too. You do as your mother says and go along with Carol. You'll mind me! And you'll do everything Carol tells you. Now kiss me good-bye and get started."

Charlie leaned toward her helplessly. Their lips met.

"We're going to have a grand trip, Charlie," Carol said. "We're going to spend the night at a tourist camp. I'm your nurse." She started her motor turning over.

"Carol! You'll be careful of my baby won't you?"

"Just as if he was made of glass," Carol assured her. "And I'll let you know that we made the trip safely. When Charlie comes back, he'll be driving the car himself. But I'll see you before then." The machine was rolling ahead. "Good-bye! Good-bye!"

"Good-bye!"

Carol did not dare look back through the rear window. Something told her that Mrs. Lennon would have given way. Charlie was silent, leaning back. She stole a glance at him.

His eyes were closed tightly, but she was a tear rolling down his pale cheeks.

Carol Delaine and her patient were well on their way to the sanitarium at Siloam Springs when Chester Dennison walked into her father's shop. Discovering the little proprietor sitting with his feet on the work table and smoking moodily, his caller helped himself to a chair as he remarked:

"You look like the picture of that guy sitting amid the ruins of Athens. Where is your fellow Greek?"

"Aggie? Oh, he's making a delivery trip. We're cutting out curb service now, taking pants direct to the consumer." Despite the light reply, Andy's air of gloom seemed to persist. Dennison suddenly guessed the reason.

"Has Carol gone away?"

"Left this morning. You know then?"

"Rather. I don't mind telling you that she asked me not to see her again . . . until she returned, I mean."

"Yes? Carol likes time to think things over, Chet. She's always been that way."

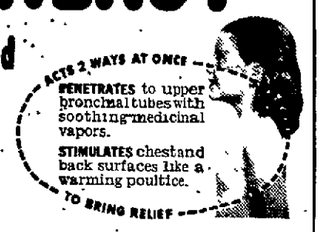

"So I've discovered." Chester appeared to be sharing his friend's depression for the moment. "She wouldn't tell me when she was coming back," he said.

"You've nothing on me, my boy. I don't even know where she went. She drove her car and that makes me a little jittery, although she handles it very well. She always keeps her head in an emergency. Still . . ."

Cut Non-Essential Expenditures

CALM acceptance of the inevitable high costs of war, and the sacrifices necessary to meet those costs, should not be permitted to weaken efforts to reduce non-defense expenditures of government—in reality it should intensify those efforts.

The possibilities of economizing on non-defense spending has again been brought to the attention of congress by the report of a special committee headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd. This committee, which says it "has just started," points out ways in which $1,131,075,000 could be cut from non-defense outlays.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce is taking leadership in this state in pressing for reduction of two billion dollars in the federal budget and calls for wartime abolishment of the WPA, NYA and CCC, as a start.

With need for farm labor increasing to the extent of suggesting likelihood of calling girls and women for work on farms, it is proposed to divert as many men as possible from government-sustained agencies into agricultural and other lines of work where shortages appear.

Many of the young men for whom the CCC provided a bridging-over period of healthful work and beneficial training will now be required for military service and a number of older men who had been dependent on relief jobs will be needed in private employment.

The costs of war will be so great, and the drain upon taxpayers so heavy, that no opportunity for saving in non-military expenditures should be overlooked.

Pledge To the Philippines

THE HEARTENING message sent to the people of the Philippines by President Roosevelt stated a position which must be recognized as an obligation of this country to the island group which came under United States control after the Spanish-American war in 1898.

The independence for which Filipinos asked, and which has been promised them, would normally come about in another four years, but war conditions in the Far East have made decided changes in the situation and for the past couple of weeks it has seemed possible that Japan would attain temporary victory in the Philippines, with resultant enslavement of the Filipino people.

Despite Japanese intrigue, the Filipinos have been battling gallantly in defense of Manila and their island possessions, with such inadequate American aid as was available.

Now, however, President Roosevelt, speaking for the United States of America, has given his solemn pledge to the people of the Philippines "that their freedom will be redeemed and their independence established and protected."

And when the commander-in-chief of America's armed forces makes such a promise it can be depended upon.

Reduce Speed On Old Tires

UNLESS the shut-off of new automobile tires for civilian use is accompanied by enforced or voluntary reduction of driving speed the outlook for next year's traffic accidents and fatalities must be regarded as gloomy.

Diversion of the nation's limited supply of crude rubber to essential wartime uses is a wise precaution—but resort to civilian use of retreaded tires and tires made from reprocessed old rubber will bring new dangers onto already hazardous streets and highways.

The lifetime of old tires can be extended by retreading but it must be recognized by users that old tires frequently develop other weaknesses which make them unsafe at sustained high speeds.

"New" tires made from reprocessed old rubber, which will become available as a wartime fill-in, are frankly admitted to be unsafe at a driving speed in excess of 35 miles an hour, and the idea that any considerable number of motorists will be satisfied to travel at that speed seems ludicrous to drivers accustomed to 50 or 60-mile speed.

With sharp curtailment of motor car production resulting in many people keeping older cars in use than ordinarily, and with tires kept in service longer than customary, the added danger of motoring seems sufficient to impress all motorists with the need for greater care and less speed.

Inspection of tires and tubes, to make sure that they are in safe condition for use, is now more than ordinarily important, as the most dangerous driving season of the year is being entered.

Barriers Dropped 'For the Duration'

TARIFFS and other barriers, except political ones, between the United States and Canada, are now being pulled down. The two countries are acting realistically and both sides recognize that it's all one war—that whatever is contributed by either is good for the other. Radical things are done to promote the free flow of war materials, expert talent and other important factors. It is much the same in our war relations with England and the other British countries.

Obviously there will be much unscrambling to be done when the war is over. But in all likelihood these various branches of the English-speaking race will not dissolve their partnership then as they did after the last war. They will be held together not only by comradeship in arms but by unity of culture and ideals and the need of preserving what they have gained.

That will be a time calling for intelligence and statesmanship no less than is required in the present crisis.

Now that Japan's "Son of Heaven" has been revealed as having been in on the Pearl Harbor job his heredity is being credited to a less complimentary source.

Check-up shows that the effort to popularize "funny" Christmas cards has again failed—which is creditable to those who send Yuletide greetings.

Another of the things we can get along without knowing about is the launching of new battleships.

It's an Omaha knitting club that gets credit for the slogan: "Remember—Purl Harder."

As one printer remarked to another: "He's the go-getter type—nonpareil size."

Anything can be endured as long as there is no black-out of news.

Now there's a shortage of some kinds of nuts—but not of others.

PAYING FOR A DEAD HORSE

Jap Emperor Lulled, Young Says

—By JAMES R. YOUNG

(Editor's Note: In the following article, James R. Young, for 13 years chief of the Tokyo bureau of International News Service, describes how the Japanese emperor is lulled into complaisant acquiescence in schemes of his military leaders by lying claims to non-existent victories.)

(Written Expressly For International News Service.)

EMPEROR "Charlie" Hirohito, breakfasting on rice, raw fish and a pickled radish in his one-storied palace in mid-town Tokyo, today read these cautiously prepared military reports:

1—His "imperial and glorious forces" have "bombed San Francisco."

2—His navy has "liberated" 18,000 Japs at Davao.

3—Pamphlets dropped on Manila caused Filipinos to plot the overthrow of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "imperialistic soldiers from Washington."

Bulletins from Japan today by short wave are of the type I have read during Japan's 10-year war. In all of her combats—Manchuria, two with Russia, Marco Polo bridge, Shanghai (twice), Nanking's assault, Hankow's capture, Tsingtao's burning, and Canton's sellout—Japan's statements read identical.

Hirohito and his unhappy, underfed and depressed people have yet to learn that those whom they attack, hate Japan. He and they, who did not know of the Pearl Harbor attack until after war was declared, are not cognizant of the bitterness in the Philippines.

AS MANILA was declared an open city, I recalled numerous Japanese military communiques that "only military objectives" were attacked in Chungking. I visited that famous back-country capital of Gen. Chiang Kai Shek and made particular note that no military establishments were in the city. The Chinese had purposely removed arsenals, barracks and supplies. In that rocky, hilly city of a half million civilians I found the Japs had bombed the business district, mission hospitals and the civilian government areas.

YOUNG

The Japanese will not now receive fifth column support in the Philippines. Tokyo leaders often boasted that for the price of a good first class destroyer they could buy Filipino political leaders. Today there is no price. The Japs have, in the Philippines, united the people as in China. By their viciousness, barbarity and disregard for legal conventions, Japan has aroused wrath and hatred.

Nippon's partial epileptic emperor, the alleged 124th descendant of the sun goddess, will never know that his arrogant and Axis dominated militarists bombed a defenseless city, that they did not bomb San Francisco. He will be kept in his holy sanctum and fed only favorable reports of "victories."

Filipinos who remember Japan's lying assurances to Nanking and Hankow, Tientsin and Canton, Changsha and Chengchow, know the Japs drop only lying scraps of paper and post deceitful hand bills.

Japan will learn that the United States will bring the war to Japan. Admirals Yonai, Suzuki and others who cautioned the imperial headquarters mad-men, will point out, if they live through the bombing, that the United States fleet is not idle, as Washington announced, that a well planned and intensive campaign will bring positive assistance to the Philippines.

Japan is less prepared to maintain a 26-week campaign against the United States, even with greater distances in Tokyo's favor, than was Germany in her half-year effort at Moscow.

WASHINGTON defeatists who even a week ago maintained that Japan had stock pile reserves and an abundance of raw materials to prosecute a long war are mistaken. This assertion is not underestimating the foe.

Japan's strafing in Manila, the shooting of American captives after stripping them of uniforms, sabotage and fifth column operations, and diplomatic back stabbings are the same pattern of Japanese operations since Sept. 10, 1931 when Japan attacked Manchuria.

But "der tag" for Tokyo is nearing — the day when Japan will feel the force of American attack on her home territory.

TODAY IN HISTORY

James Gadsden, railroad promoter, negotiated the famous real estate transaction known as Gadsden's Purchase on this date in 1853. The territory which Gadsden purchased from Mexico for the sum of $10,000,000 was a tract of land of some 45,000 square miles bounded on the east by the Rio Grande, on the north by the Gila river and on the west by the Colorado.

Looking Ahead.

The one-year-old son of war hero Colin P. Kelly, jr., may or may not want to be a soldier when he reaches the age where he is able to make decisions for himself.

But there is good precedent for President Roosevelt's letter asking that the president of the United States in 1956 consider appointing Colin P. Kelly, III, as a West Point cadet.

Ulysses S. Grant, a year before he died, wrote a similar letter on behalf of his 4-year-old grandson and namesake. Acting upon the Civil war general's request, President William McKinley made the appointment. The youth was no disappointment; he finished West Point at the head of his class.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

That Word, "Hammock."

Columbus, writing the Narrative of his first voyage, says:

"A great many Indians in canoes came to the ship today for the purpose of bartering their cotton and hamacas, or nets, in which they sleep."

"Hamaca," then, was how Columbus thought sounded the Carib Indian word for their swinging-bed.

As a matter of fact, it was the Indian name for the tropical tree whose bark the aborigines used in manufacturing this suspended sleeping equipment, which, Anglicizing the Spanish term, we call a hammock, now the customary "couch" on battleships!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Roosevelt Made Final Decision In Labor-Management Agreement

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Two men put over the labor-management no-strike-or-lockout agreement.

One was President Roosevelt. The other was Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, former university professor and chairman of the senate labor committee.

For four days the 12 employer and 12 AFL and CIO representatives deadlocked on the closed shop issue. The industrialist group demanded that existing shop conditions be frozen for the duration of the war. The union delegation insisted that the closed shop be subject to arbitration the same way as any other controversy.

Feeling between the two groups became so tense in the secret deliberations that on one occasion CIO President Phil Murray moved that industry be called on to give up all its war profits. On this challenge the two factions split squarely. All the employers voted no; all the laborites, yes.

Throughout the four days of wrangling, Thomas, participating as assistant moderator, listened patiently without saying a word. His only observation was a pointed remark during a recess that he "hoped the conference would not be disrupted by meddling lawyers."

Thomas's crack was aimed at John C. Grall, counsel of the National Manufacturers' association. Repeatedly during the deadlock the employers had asked time out to caucus. During these private pow-wows they were counselled by Gall, who was not a delegate and whose presence around the conference chamber was viewed with open hostility by the government representatives and laborites.

Finally, when an agreement appeared hopeless, Thomas quietly proposed a three-point formula: (1) no-strike, no-lockout guarantee; (2) all issues to be arbitrated, with both sides pledged to abide by decisions; (3) creation of an arbitration agency.

Roosevelt Decides.

THE AFL and CIO leaders accepted Thomas's plan instantly. The business delegates also said it was acceptable to them, if a provision was added freezing the status quo on the open-closed shop issue.

When this was rejected, the employers, for the sake of harmony, then agreed to put the issue up to Roosevelt. Whatever he decided they would accept.

It was their expectation that, before ruling, the president would confer with them. He didn't. After a private talk with Thomas and Moderator William Davis, Roosevelt sent the conference a letter that he favored Thomas's plan.

While making no secret of their disappointment, the employers bowed to the president's decision and, without further discussion, agreed to sign up.

Lewis Orates.

AT THE END, when they finally got together, the employers and laborites parted cordially, shaking hands and exchanging friendly holiday greetings. But during the long stalemate they pulled no punches in their exchanges. They talked frankly and bluntly.

Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mills, was the chief employer spokesman. Mathew Woll, AFL vice president, and George Meany, ambitious AFL secretary, did most of the talking for their group. John L. Lewis carried the ball for the CIO.

He did it in his usual sonorous, melodramatic manner. On one occasion he waded into the industrialists as follows:

"Mr. Moderator. When the industries of this country come out of this war, they will have built for themselves, at the expense of the American people, the most gigantic plants, perfect in every mechanical excellence, that ever before existed in any nation in the world. The government is going to build all this for them and they will make vast profits at the expense of American workers who are being required to do without automobiles and without luxuries.

"At the same time, Mr. Moderator, labor is being asked to accept a proposal whereby industry will come out with fat surpluses while labor organizations will be debilitated or entirely eliminated. Workers will come out of the war with bodies broken, spirits crushed, and their unions dispersed and futile."

Demurring at these accusations, Hook recalled that he once had worked for 13 cents an hour.

"Are you still working for that, Mr. Hook?" rumbled Lewis.

Note—Lewis and William Green, AFL president, who not so long ago plastered each other with sizzling brickbats, throughout the conference were very chummy, calling one another "Bill" and "John." Both labor groups gave a significant indication of their private views regarding Secretary Frances Perkins, when she, with characteristic ineptness, invited them to lunch at the height of the deadlock. As they unanimously declined, Meany summed up their attitude with the impatient remark, "Doesn't she know we've got work to do? We've got no time for frills and society."

Heroic Scotch.

SCREEN STAR Robert Montgomery, lieutenant in naval intelligence, has many interesting tales about his experiences as an ambulance driver in France. But his favorite is about the heroism of a small force of Scotch infantry, which illustrates the kind of never-say-die spirit that eventually will seal the doom of the Axis.

When the Nazi army invaded southern France, an American buddy of Montgomery was captured and forced to drive Nazi ambulances. One day he was standing on a hill beside a German officer, watching a panzer division in action against Scotch and French infantry. It was carnage at its worst, for the defending force had no planes and no tanks.

Suddely, a remarkable thing happened. As a powerful force of Nazi tanks swept forward, several hundred Scotch soldiers dashed out into the open to meet them head-on. All but about 25 were killed as they tried to destroy the tanks with hand grenades.

"Stupid fools—your friends," the German officer snickered.

"No they are not stupid," said the ambulance driver. "They undoubtedly were told to stand their ground and they had nothing else to fight your tanks with. You will remember this incident when the war is over, if you're still alive, for it is the kind of spirit we have just witnessed that eventually will lick hell out of you Germans."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The S.S. Normandie haunts me.

I saw her make her maiden entry into the Port of New York.

As sirens wailed and planes droned overhead a million New Yorkers and New Jerseymen lined the waterfront and cheered. She was a gay, French chit with a tri-color in her hair who winked at strangers and the crowd winked right back.

THAT night I went aboard her for her first official reception, and I remember the gorgeous tapestries and the miles of ankle-deep broadloom that precluded all sound as you moved through her salons or strolled her endless passageways.

I was to remember those tapestries and all her rich, jeweled trappings months later, after the bottom fell out of the world, after Calais and Dunkirk. The Normandie never left her berth at the foot of 50th street after war was declared. She had a skeleton crew. Cops paced the waterfront and only by presenting special credentials could you get aboard. I used to pass there twice a day, wondering at the slow change that began to take place. Rust came to color her chains and stain her sides. There was no life. She seemed desolate and forlorn with only her press clippings of yesterday to remember her.

ONE night in a bar, one cold ugly night many months later, I listened to a tale that brought a cold, dull horror into the room. The man who told it was a high official. He told it frankly, openly, easily.

He said: "That's a terrible thing about the Normandie, isn't it."

We looked up, questioningly, and in much these words this is what he said:

"The lonely, beautiful Normandie has been gutted by rats. The great, ugly rats that haunt the waterfront. You can hear them galloping through her corridors at night like dried beans rattling in a hollow skull. They have ripped her gorgeous tapestries to tatters, gnawed the costly furniture, literally lacerated her salons.

"But that is not the worst part, not nearly. There is a little chapel aboard the Normandie, because she is French and therefore Catholic. In this chapel is a figure of Jesus.

The rats have gnawed this image of Jesus to pieces."

THIS was the tale this man told.

We listened in stunned silence.

I came back to the office and wrote this story, then destroyed it. Next day I went to the head of the French Line and told him what I had heard.

He said, "Why, it's fantastic, untrue, a lie." I said, "Will you let me go through the Normandie and see?" He said, "Certainly, anytime, at once."

So I went aboard her, and once again I saw her priceless tapestries and fine old filigree work, her costly appointments and her luxurious elegance. Nothing was changed.

Now that the government has taken over the Normandie I thought I'd mention this tale, for it has lifted its head again. I heard it, in a different version, at a dinner last night. The rats, it seems, have done it again. Only, it isn't true. I just thought I'd write it into the record.

A Farmer's Diary

Tufted Titmouse

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

JUST before the holiday season, for two years past, we have had a very pleasant little visitor near our western window. Often, just after dawn, I see him on the wild cherry branch above the spring. Here he seems to tilt on a frosty, ice coated twig and look carefully about to satisfy his curiosity.

From the way this inquisitive tufted titmouse looks into your window, I suspect him of gossiping among his bird neighbors about what he saw the Byerses doing—how the old man overslept and then hustled to build the morning fires; how the little boys quarreled over who should have the warmest spot to dress in; how the steaming coffee smelled, how the eggs sizzled and the oatmeal plopped before each was lifted from the stove; how the school bus honked from the barn bridge before breakfast was finished, and how three sleepy youngsters ran to meet it.

The little bird's body is well clothed, even to his curious crest, but his thin bony legs and his bare tiny feet resting securely on snow and ice, make one pity him. His winter song is rather gloomy, but occasionally his spirits rise and then from his short blunt beak comes a peculiar squeak such as a mouse might make hidden in a mat of grass.

One cold morning when snow had laced the edges of the spring, he flew down into the fluffy mass—then plunged into the water, from which fog rose constantly. His wings flipped spray high into the air. To a human, such an antic might have meant illness, even death. To the tufted titmouse, it was a frolic. In a few more moments he sat perkily on the wild-cherry limb and hurled terrible epithets at Custard, the big yellow house cat, as he trotted to the barn. He even glowered at an airplane as it flew roaring above the house.

Winter is never too cold for brave tomtit—yet I have observed he will take shelter in a hollow tree—although he prefers a bird house near a dwelling.

In May the pair is none too careful how their nest is made, but will build upon any old foundation of musty sticks and straw left by some other feathered tribe. Here five to seven white eggs speckled with reddish brown are laid. I do not know whether the male helps with the dull job of hatching, but when the more wary lady goes out for meals, I have seen her cover her precious eggs most carefully, using both beak and claw. . . .

COST RISE TO FORCE THRIFT IN TAX SPENDING

Auditor Says County's Income To Be Same But Expenses Will Be Higher.

Operating income of Richland county and its subdivisions in 1942 probably will vary little from this year's figures, but increasing operation costs will force most districts to watch their expenditures more closely, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

The county and the 42 school districts, townships, villages, and cities will begin work soon on their 1942 appropriations which are expected to show little change from this year's operating totals.

The auditor has asked officials of the subdivisions to submit their operating balances as of Dec. 31 to be used in setting up estimates of the funds that will be available for the year.

School boards, city and village councils, and township trustees then will pass appropriation measures for the year. The action is required at their first meeting in January.

In addition to the county's own appropriation measure, others will be voted by Mansfield and Shelby, seven villages, 18 townships, 13 school districts, and trustees of two libraries.

Although the first 1942 tax collection probably will not begin until about Feb. 1, Auditor Wolfe said estimates of tax income for the year give the taxing districts about the same amount of money as they received in 1941.

The county's tax duplicate was considerably lower this year than during the boom period of the late 1920's, but collections were the best in at least a decade, providing ample operating funds in most districts.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

I shook an exasperated fist at Mary in protest against her ribald foolery, and I purposely made my voice a bit impatient when I murmured an experimental "Noel!" into the telephone.

"Oh, yes, Aunt Madge," he answered cordially. "What can I do for you?"

"You can give your wife a sound thrashing for being what she herself would call fresh," I answered. "But on second thought I'd like you to delay it until after I have a chance to talk to you. How soon will it be convenient to you for me to come over there? Have you breakfasted?"

"I've had all the breakfast I ever eat when I first arise," he said; "coffee and choissants. But I'm just starting to shave. I'd like to finish."

"Of course," I said. "What time would you like me to come over?"

"How would ten minutes do?" he queried.

"It will do splendidly," I answered. "I'll be knocking at your door in exactly ten minutes from now."

Distasteful Talk.

"I shall be eagerly awaiting that knock," he said gallantly.

"Thank you," I answered. Then, replacing the receiver, I repeated to Mary what her husband had said.

"The poor fish!" she exclaimed. "He wouldn't be so eager if he knew what you wanted of him."

"I know," I said despondently. "This is one of the most distasteful tasks I ever have had. If Marion weren't in such danger, I think I should do what I never have done yet—refuse to do what my father asks."

"If Marion weren't in such danger," she pointed out sensibly, "he wouldn't ask such a task of you."

But she exhausted her philosophy with the speech. The next second she raised her hands high above her head and shook them wildly.

"Don't pay any attention to me, Auntie Madge," she begged, as I started toward her: "I'm just so jittery I don't know what to do with myself. You know, when you come to think of it, that's an awful dose you'll be asking Noel to take."

"Are you telling me?" I countered, using a phraseology which is often on her lips. "I simply don't know where to begin."

"And I haven't a single hint to give you," she said despondently as the telephone rang.

"I imagine that will be your father," she said. "Will you answer it, or shall I?"

"He probably will wish to speak to me anyway," I said practically, going to the telephone and hearing, as I expected, my father's voice.

"Margaret?" he said. "Please take down this room number—1692. I shall be there until after Ronald arrives, and until you have completed the assignment I gave to you. What have you to report?"

"Everything arranged; it will be within a few minutes," I told him.

"Good!" he rejoined. "Call me here as soon as you have finished, and I will come directly over. Incidentally, I have arranged at the desk to have Ronald shown to this room as soon as he comes in, and to have him told that you are away from the hotel, but will call him as soon as you get back. I did that as a precaution, so that if the other matter is prolonged, you won't be interrupted. Is that saisfactory?"

"Perfectly," I told him, wondering a bit grimly what his reaction would have been, if I had made him the opposite answer.

"Then au revoir, and good luck," he said, repeating the encouragement he had given me before.

"Thank you," I said again, and hung up the receiver.

Anxious About Noel.

"I suppose he wished you good luck," Mary said. "I wish I could, but I feel as if I were a regular Jonah. If I extended you my good wishes, Noel is likely to take you by the nape of the neck and shake you until your back teeth rattle."

I stole an uncomfortable glance at my wrist watch.

"I shall have just about time to get over there," I said ruefully, as I went toward the door. "I shall be back as soon as I possibly can."

"I," said Mary despondently, "shall be on my knees, with two flagellants wielding effective knouts, until you return."

MANSFIELDER WEDS PORTSMOUTH GIRL

Miss Sara Ann Moore and Lieutenant Paul Eugene Flohr Exchange Nuptial Vows On Dec. 27 in Methodist Church In Portsmouth.

IN a striking setting of winter greenery and pine and cedar illuminated by lighted tapers in tall white standards in the Bigelow Methodist church in Portsmouth on Dec. 27 Miss Sara Ann Moore exchanged nuptial vows with Lieutenant Paul Eugene Flohr of Ft. Jackson, S. C. Rev. A. K. Wilson performed the impressive ceremony at 2:30 o'clock for Miss Moore, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Talbott Moore, of Portsmouth, and Lieutenant Flohr, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Flohr of 132 Home avenue.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal gown of white satin fashioned with a shirred fitted bodice, long full sleeves, sweetheart neckline and full skirt which fell into a train. Her veil of bridal illusion extended halo-fashion from her Mary Stuart hat of the same material. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and a Pi Beta Phi sorority pin. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Martha Moore, sister of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. Miss Moore wore a bouffant frock of dusty rose taffeta and tulle fashioned with a fitted bodice, heart-shaped neckline and short puffed sleeves. Over a headdress of ostrich tips she wore a shoulder length veil of dusty rose. She wore long white lace mitts and carried a bouquet of pin roses tied with blue ribbons.

Robert Flohr of this city was his brother's best man. Ushers were William Liggett of Ripley, Charles Horr of Portsmouth and George B. Hinde of Columbus and James T. Lynn, Portsmouth, fraternity brother sof the bridegroom.

Harold Raymond Thompson, organist and the Misses Emily Rickey sang "At Dawning" and alists, of Portsmouth, furnished the musical program preceding and during the ceremony. Some of Mr. Thompson's organ selections were "Liebestraum," "I Love You Truly." "Thine Alone," "My Pi Phi Girl," which was played during the ceremony, and the traditional wedding marches. Miss Rickey sang ::At Dawning" and "Because" and Miss McCabe sang "O Promise Me."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Elks club in Portsmouth for 200 guests. Christmas appointments, lighted tapers and winter flowers decorated the club rooms. The bridal table was attractively decorated with white roses, southern smilax and lighted tapers.

Mrs. Moore appeared at her daughter's wedding and reception in an aqua crepe afternoon frock studded with rhinestones, and, an aqua feather trimmed hat, long white kid gloves. Mrs. Flohr wore a black and white silk jersey floor length gown with black and white accessories. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of orchids.

After the reception Lieutenant and Mrs. Flohr left for a wedding trip after which they will reside at 525 Santee avenue in Columbia, S. C. For traveling the bride wore a brown costume suit trimmed with platinum fox and brown accessories.

Mrs. Flord graduated from Portsmouth high school and Ohio State university and is now a member of the Portsmouth high school faculty. Lieutenant Flohr graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Ohio State university. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, and was employed at the Banc Ohio Securities in Columbus before going to Ft. Jackson in South Carolina where he is stationed with the army.

Former School Superintendent Wed 50 Years

Many Mansfield friends of Dr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Lyon, 5505 Arnsby Place, Madisonville, will be interested to learn that today marks their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Dr. Lyon, now retired, was principal of Mansfield Senior high school and served as superintendent of local schools for six years.

The Lyons are celebrating their anniversary with open house for friends and a gathering of members of the immediate family. From Mansfield, Dr. and Mrs. Lyon went to Cincinnati. He retired nine years ago as principal of Withrow high school after serving the Cincinnati school system for 32 years. During that time he was principal of Madisonville public school, and Woodward and Hughes high schools prior to his assignment at Withrow high school. A large oil painting of Dr. Lyon now hangs in the latter building.

The marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Lyon took place at Berea, near Cleveland. Dr. A. J. Lyon, father of the former, performed the ceremony. He was a Methodist minister. Dr. Lyon is 79, and Mrs. Lyon, who is well known as a hobbyist, is 74. They have two sons. Philip E. Lyon is statistician with Robert A. Cline, Inc., real estate firm. Dr. Robert Lyon is acting medical director of Children's hospital and is a member of the staff of General hospital in Cincinnati. There are two grandchildren.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, December 31

THE CUSTOMARY pursuit of pleasure in almost unbridled degree, to celebrate the passing of the old and birth of the new year, are under most expansive and exhilarating stimulus of the social, romantic and emotional planets. An astral combination of all the forces and urges makes for festivity and merrymaking to the nth degree, with no sedate, restrictive or moderating influence to check them. All else is relegated to the background of long ago, with joy unconfined for the moment.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year in which the pleasanter and happier aspects of life are uppermost, with comradeship, friendship, love and good will under a generous, warming and expansive glow of leading planets. All should expand and progress in the direction of high ambitions and cherished intimate objectives, with but one note of caution—to give heed to elders and not to shirk obligations.

A child born on this day will be efficient, generous, ambitious and fortunate, with prospect of a successful and very popular life.

Virginia Knight Weds Dec. 28 In Local Church

Wedding of Miss Virginia Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Knight, R. D. 1, Mansfield, and Leon Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Snyder of near Bellville, was solemnized Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Rev. Edward G. Corwin, pastor, read the marriage service at the altar of the First Methodist church.

A street-length dress of powder blue was worn by the bride. Her accessories were in navy blue. She had a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. Miss Ruth Knight, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a navy blue dress and had black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Doyle Norris served as best man for Mr. Snyder. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are now on a wedding trip through Virginia and upon their return will reside with the bridegroom's parents. Mr. Snyder's occupation is farming. The bride was graduated from Weller high school; the bridegroom from Butler high school.

Tri Gamma Group Elects Officers Following Dinner

Following a dinner party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for members of Delta chapter of Tri Gamma sorority last evening, Mrs. Howard Culp invited the group to her home on Benton street. During the business meeting these officers were elected: president, Mrs. Jack Pealer; vice president, Mrs. Warren Ullum; secretary, Mrs. John Harrison; and treasurer, Mrs. Parker O'Brien.

Plans were made to have "rough initiation" for new pledges on Jan. 7, at the home of Mrs. Frank Mengert on Rowland avenue. Mrs. Lowell Moore will assist. The formal initiation will be held on Jan. 14 at Woods', near Ashland. At the close of the evening "Maudie gifts" were exchanged and names were disclosed.

"Guest Night" Party Held By Church Guild

"Guest Night" was held Monday evening in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church by members of the church guild. Mrs. T. F. Frank, guest speaker, gave an interesting talk on "Animals in Art." When Mrs. Frank showed illustrations of her talk she was assisted by her daughter, Miss Henrietta Frank.

Mrs. Ralph Dickson led the devotional program. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with winter greenery. Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Anthony, Mrs. Merle Robert, Mrs. Leonard Ebbert, members of the program committee, and Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Lynn Robenstein, Miss Martha Gump, Mrs. William Neutzling and Mrs. Miller Jones, members of the social committee. The next meeting will be held Jan. 26 at the home of Miss Jeannette Martin, Rae avenue. Miss Chattie Sullivan will be the associate hostess.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAUSE FOR GRATITUDE

Are you duly thankful to an opponent who does something during the progress of bidding or play which helps you make a maximum result on a big hand? Most of us are not, but merely pat ourselves on the back for whatever we accomplish, giving credit to our partners or opponents only on the rarest of occasions. But there are really many times when we should consider ourselves chiefly the recipients of favors from someone else.

If North had shown no kings at all by bidding 6-Clubs after the Blackwood 5-No Trumps South said he would have bid 7-Hearts instead of the grand slam in No Trumps only the second time he was ever in that contract.

West's double was very bad, since it might show the declarer exactly how to play the hand as it did South knew at once after West led the spade 5 that the club finesse would not work so he had no earthly way to develop thirteen tricks except by a squeeze play. He had never made one of these consciously in his life, but necessity was the mother of invention for him. He did it perfectly.

Of course, if West had led a diamond, as many unwise players would, the hand would have been a cinch, but after the spade lead, South went to work. To create an illusion of spade length, he let the spade 10 win, went to the heart A, cashed the spade A, ran four more minor aces, then led the last heart while still holding the diamond 9 and club J, and in the dummy the diamond K-10 and club Q. West, with the club K, did not like to toss that and set up the Q, so had to make the equally unhappy discard of the diamond J from the Q-J. Thereupon the club Q was thrown from dummy, the diamond 9 to the K dropped the Q and the diamond 10 took the final trick.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Mr. Scott is a farmer by occupation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott, route 1, Bucyrus.

We pledge ourselves to this cause

A Statement by
The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We make this pledge publicly to our national government and to the people of the United States:

That we will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods.

That we will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid to the grower and prices charged to the consumers.

That to this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them.

That we will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices.

That we will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally.

That we will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business.

Today we are providing food for our customers at the lowest gross profit rate in the history of the retail grocery business. This means that we have achieved efficiencies in the distribution of food never before attained. More of your food dollar goes for food and less for overhead expenses than ever before. No other great retail business in the United States in any field is operated with such a low cost of distribution.

No one in the food business can control the wholesale price of food. Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power.

Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest.

The armed forces of the United States are today receiving more and better food than ever before in our national history. It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines, men, women and children, shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

It appears the year 1941 will go down in sports history as the year in which boxing died in Mansfield.

One revival of the professional mitt game drew a fair sized crowd on a rainy night, but more recent efforts to keep the game alive have failed for lack of a place to hold the fistic shows.

The armory hasn't been available and no other suitable place has been discovered.

Even the amateurs haven't been very active. There's been no amateur show here since the British relief fund show way last spring, and now comes announcement that there'll be no Golden Gloves qualifier here next spring.

The amateurs have been working out, and four of them appeared on a show in Loudonville recently, indicating that there may be a spark of life in the game yet.

Whether the spark is big enough to keep rigor mortis from setting in during 1942 is something we'll have to wait to see.

Old time fans of the Horvath-Dundee-Zimmerman era know that Mansfield was once one of the best fight towns in Ohio, but until promoters are found who are willing to start from the bottom and build the game up again, this city will not own that reputation again.

Small club shows with well-matched bouts might produce Mansfield fighters who could lift the game back to its former popularity. But where those shows could be held is a mystery at this writing.

Meanwhile it's too bad that boys like Paul Carbetta must languish in idleness at a time when they should be hitting their peak in the fight game.

Maybe Paul is better off at that, working with flowers instead of cauliflowers. But he doesn't think so, and he's been threatening for some time now to leave town and hook up with a stable where he can get some action.

* * *

The lack of a place to hold fight shows also has killed the wrestling game here at a time when that game was dead enough anyhow. Tim Nolan, who formerly promoted wrestling here, was in town a month ago looking the situation over, and the situation scared him out in a hurry.

Publicity Chief Resigns His Post

CHICAGO —(INS)— The American Baseball league today launched a search for a new public relations director, following the resignation of Henry P. Edwards, who will retire Feb. 1 after occupying the position for 14 years.

Edwards, now 70 years old, will make his home in Huntsville, Ala., it was learned. He created the public relations department Feb. 1, 1928, at the instigation of the late E. S. Barnard, who had become president of the league a short time before.

Barnard had been business manager of the Cleveland Indians and Edwards had been sports editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer for 28 years.

Regulars To Start Rose Bowl

Both Duke and Oregon State to Rely on Regs.

By JACK GUENTHER

DURHAM, N. C.—(U.P.)—A couple of normally gregarious gentlemen who have become hermits in the short space of 24 hours unbarred the doors of their respective hideaways today long enough to pass the word that they'll rely on their regular starting line-ups in the transplanted Rose Bowl game Thursday.

Wallace Wade of Duke and Lon Stiner of Oregon State both shouted the same question: "Why break up a winning combination?"

Wade, who sent his undefeated and untied Southern conference champions through a brisk secret workout on the crisp turf of Duke stadium yesterday while dozens of assorted visitors vainly tried to crash the gate, indicated that the condition of Halfback Moffat Storer remained something of a problem but that his Blue Devils would line up like this:

Jim Smith and Alex Piasecky, ends; Mike Karmazin and Bob McDonough, tackles; Peter Goddard and Tom Burns, guards; Bob Barnett, center; Tom Prothro, quarterback; the mighty Steve Lach and Tom Davis, halfbacks; and the Durham scooter, Winston Siegfried, at the Blue Devils' key spot, fullback.

The silver-thatched Duke mentor said he wasn't completely satisfied with his squad because the lads appeared to be a bit less shifty than before he gave them a vacation over the holidays. But the scouts who managed to reach the inner sanctum reported that the local prides displayed plenty of zip in defensive maneuvers.

Stiner said he would rely on the combination which won the Pacific Coast title, to wit:

* * *

George Zellick and Norm Peters, ends; Lloyd Wickett and Bob Saunders, tackles; Bill Halverson and Martin Chaves, guards; Quentin Greenough, center; George Peters, quarter; the unorthodox passing combination of Bob Dethman and Don Durdan at the halves; and Joe Day—the boy who clinched the bowl bid with a touchdown against Oregon—at full.

These are the boys who carried State to its first Rose Bowl invitation and the ones who will carry the banner of the west against a school which lost the only bowl game it had played previously—that in the last 40 seconds against Southern California—7-3 in 1939.

The odds against the Beavers are still 3-1, but the men willing to lay them are scarcer than either hotel accommodations or tickets—both of which have long since been sold out.

Rex Billiards Holds Top Loop Spot

In the Friendly House Senior White cage loop play last night the Rex Billiards team maintained its hold on first place with a 42-28 victory over the last place Boston grocery. High scorer was Jocka of the billiards team with four field goals for eight points.

In the other game Hunt's News broke a tie with Isaly Dairy for third place by edging the dairy team 28-26. Jergers, Newsie guard, was highpointer in this tilt with five field goals and one four shot for 11 points.

A scheduled game between Sferros and Daley's cafe was not played.

CALIFORNIA CLUBS KEEP HOLD ON GOLF TOURNEY

DEL MONTE, Cal. — (INS) — "Pebble Beach and Del Monte are going right ahead with plans to hold the national amateur golf championship here next fall, despite war conditions," declared Samuel F. B. Morse, Del Monte promoter, today.

His statement dampened the hopes of the Tam O'Shanter golf club of Chicago, which has been angling for the event.

FORDHAM AT PEAK

NEW ORLEANS —(INS)— The Fordham football team is at its peak and will go into the Sugar Bowl game against the Missouri Tigers New Year day in as good shape as it has been at any time during the past season, Coach Jim Crowley announced today.

HOLD SHOOT

A New Year day shoot will be held at the Mansfield Gun club on the Park avenue west road with hams, bacon, sausages and merchandise as prizes.

Sponsors of the match are Al and Chet Beer.

JOINS POLICE FORCE

YOUNGSTOWN—(INS)—L. F. (Jack) Trammell, 27, recent contender for the world's heavyweight boxing championship, has been selected by Chief of Police John Turnbull for the police force.

LOUISIANA GRIDDERS SET FOR MEXICAN GAME

MEXICO CITY —(INS)— The Louisiana college football squad took its first workout today in preparation for the "Orchid Bowl" game New Year day with the University of Mexico eleven. The American team arrived by automobile yesterday from Pineville, La., with Head Coach M. A. Philips.

"This will be the seventh game between our schools," Coach Philips said. "I am proud to say it is the longest international rivalry in football. We drew the finest of all bowl trips."

Two League Records Set

Mertz Rolls 276 Game In Club Alley Loop.

American Legion tightened its grip on first place in the Club bowling league last night at Colony alleys with a 3-0 victory over Liederkranz.

Jim Smith of the Legion quintet led the league with a 682 total on games of 236-224-222 while Leo Mertz who rolled 630 for Liderkranz had high game of 276, a new record for the league.

* * *

The Legion also set a new record with a 2888 total, passing its own previous mark of 2884. However the Legion's high game of 978 was short of the league record of 1011 held by Mansfield Savings bank.

Sords' Review of the Year

OCTOBER

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Signs of the times: The title defense which Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane has promised to make for Mike Jacobs in February may never come off. Freddie has asked the navy for a month's furlough to get ready for it and nobody seems to be listening to him. . . . Buck Weaver of the Louisville Times comes up with the swell suggestion that everyone who listens to the bowl games on the air should buy $1 worth of defense stamps as a "ticket" to a game that would cost him five bucks or so to see. . . . Norfolk's Ocean View Golf association members voted unanimously for a proposition requiring each member to buy at least one $25 defense bond.

SCHWARTZ AT THE BAT.

John Beer of the Newark Sunday Call tells one on Gus Schwartz, noted slugger of the Newark sandlots. . . . Seems he went up in the Jersey hills to play a game at High Bridge one day. . . . When the opposing flinger cut the plate with his first pitch, Gus wasn't ready, but he heard the umpire shout "ball." . . . Another perfect pitch brought the same result. . . . Gus didn't take his bat off his shoulder all afternoon and always reached first. . . . After the game, the ump told him: "I know all about you as a hitter, Schwartz. When you didn't swing I knew they were no good."

ONE MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Jake Weber, veteran Fordham trainer, says the four-minute mile never will be run because such speed would be too much of a strain on the human heart. . . . When a Dutch ship docked at Hampton Roads, Va., the other day, one of the first orders sent ashore was for 14 soccer pants. . . . When a publicity man for the San Diego pro football club started to phone news of his team's doings to a Tiajuana (Mex.) radio station, he got as far as "The San Diego Bombers . . ." when a censor interrupted. "Sorry, you are to discuss no military information."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

C. A. Paul, Charlotte (N. C.) News: "The coast powers-that-be may regret moving the Rose Bowl game to North Carolina. The weather this winter has been so marvelous the game will probably be played on a mild day and the sun will likely be shining. That won't do the California climate a bit of good."

Ohio State Loses To Indian Cagers

BERKELEY, Calif. — (INS) — Beaten for the third successive time on their west coast jaunt when they bowed to a towering Stanford team, 60 to 45, last night, Ohio State's basketball team was en route home today, hopeful of better fortune in its Big Ten campaign.

* * *

Forced to shoot from far out on the floor against a Stanford team which averaged six feet, three inches in height, the Bucks were factors only at one stage in the second half. Then they climbed to within three points of the leaders.

* * *

Voss at center scored 19 points for the winners while Burness of Stanford and Sims, third string center for Ohio, were good for 14 each. Stanford led 28-17 at the half.

RAMS CONSIDER HOLDING BILLY EVANS AS CHIEF

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Owners of the Cleveland Rams professional football club are expected to reach a decision late this week on whether to retain Billy Evans, veteran baseball umpire and scout, as general manager of the Rams next season.

Evans declined to discuss a report from New York that he would not stay at the football position he assumed last summer.

City 'A' Loop Cagers Meet

League Teams Start 2nd Half of Sked Tonight.

City "A" league basketeers will open the second half of their schedule today at 7 p. m. in the Senior high school gym with the winner of the first round, the Westinghouse team, meeting the City News squad.

Although the Newsies completed the first half in fifth place with one victory and four loses, they are expected to provide keener competition tonight with the addition of Joe Miller, former Madison high school player, and Dave Prion, ex-Tyger hoopster, to their team.

* * *

First game of the evening will pit the Blue Goose Sohioans with Yuncker's Sporting goods. During the first half of the season Blue Goose ended in fourth place with two wins and three loses while Yuncker's ranked in second place with four wins and one loss.

In the other game the third place ranking Athletic Supplies take on the last place Ohio Public service club.

Weber's Take Top League Position

Weber's Beer took first place in the Commercial "C" kegling league last night at Colony alleys with a 3-0 victory over Catholic Foresters, while Safety Cabs dropped into second place with a 1-2 defeat at the hands of Goebel Beers.

Grid Season Closes Without College Death

14 Killed In All Classifications of Game But None In Big Time

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

DETROIT—(AP)—Not a single death attributed to football occurred in the nation's ranks of 65,690 college players during the 1941 season.

It was the first year in an 11-year-period that no collegian sacrificed his life, either directly or indirectly, because of the gridiron game.

This report was presented to the joint meeting today of the American Football Coaches' association and National Collegiate Athletic association by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, of Purdue university's School of Physical Education for Men.

Prof. Eastwood's report revealed that although there were no fatalities among the collegians, a slight increase in deaths occurred among so-called "sand lot" athletic club players which brought to 14 the total number of fatalities in all classifications of football deaths during the year. This was compared with a toll of 11 last year and 33 in the peak year of 1931 when the survey was begun.

Columbia's Lou Little, chairman of the Coaches' rule committee, said the fewest suggestions for changes in the rule-book were made since the body was organized 10 years ago.

They include:

(1) The team scored upon by either a touchdown or field goal is to have optional choice of goal. This is designed to create offensive balance, Little said, particularly when the wind advantage is great.

* * *

(2) Clarification of the substitution rule to remove the possibility of the so-called sleeper play.

(3) Revision of the lateral pass rule which nullifies a play downfield when the ball is passed forward. The Coaches would make this a five-yard penalty from the point of infraction. Now the ball is returned to the line of scrimmage.

(4) Placing a penalty for sending a substitute on the field after the offensive team has left the huddle or gone into formation. Penalty: Loss of a time out.

(5) Revision of the substitution rules to permit players to report to any one of the officials.

Box Tourney Qualifier Off

Golden Gloves Prelim For Mansfield Cancelled.

Decision not to hold the Golden Gloves qualifier boxing tourney this year in Mansfield was announced today by Russ Gimbel, Friendly House manager and area representative of the AAU.

* * *

Last year the Junior Association of Commerce sponsored the event, but this year because the organization was not prepared to conduct a card in accordance with AAU regulations it was decided to cancel the event.

Gimbel has promised to sponsor the matches next year himself.

The decision will mean that Mansfield area boxers will have to enter Golden Glove matches and fight in qualifier rounds there. When the qualifier rounds were held in Mansfield winners would be entered automatically in the second evening of Cleveland fights.

JAC officials told Cleveland commissioners that they could not sponsor the Mansfield qualifier this year unless fighters from outside the area were permitted to enter.

Racing Board Hears Protest

Three Trainers Squabble About Sept 26 Event.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The United States Trotting association's three-member board of review today will hear a three-way protest of the judge's decision in the $2,000 five class pace at Marysville, Sept. 26.

In the fourth and deciding heat of the race, Mr. Volodale stepped into the sulky wheel of Stoneridge Direct causing the two horses and Senator Abbey, a third contestant, to fall and unseat their drivers in the home stretch.

O. H. Lowen of Wilmington, owner of Senator Abbey, protested the placing of Stoneridge Direct ahead of his horse in the race, and Charles Lacey, trainer of Stoneridge Direct, and Henry Warwick of Indianapolis, owner of Mr. Volodale, protested the declaration of Senator Abbey as winner of the fourth heat.

* * *

O. C. Belt of Columbus was the presiding judge.

Members of the review board are T. A. Bilingsley of Greenville, Judge P. W. Rittenour of Piketon, and Dr. H. M. (Doc) Parshall of Urbana.

Brown To Show Buckeye Films

Movies of Michigan Game Feature Banquet.

There'll be two football movies at the News-Journal's annual gridiron banquet next Monday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Athletic department of Ohio State university announced today that Coach Paul Brown will bring along films of the Buckeye games of this year, including pictures of the Ohio State-Michigan game in which the Bucks pulled one of the biggest upsets of the year by tying the Wolverines 20-20.

Coach Bud Houghton of Massillon high school also will be here to show movies of the Mansfield-Massillon game in which the Mansfield Tygers also produced an upset with a 6-6 tie.

There are still some tickets available for the banquet, and they may be obtained at the News-Journal office for $1.55 which includes only the cost of the dinner, plus tax.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Major General Jonathan Mayhew Wainright, C. O. American troops in northern Luzon. It hath a ponderous sound—so ponderous indeed that today I heard a soldier say "it must be that walrus faced old General Blurb that they have in the funnies with his leggins on wrong side."

Gen. Johnson.

Since our two chiefs in command in Luzon—MacArthur and Wainright—may go down on the records as among the most heroic of American commanders, and since there are few other facts that can be freely written about the damnable situation in the Philippines, it occurred to me that a column on Wainright might be worth while. Columns on MacArthur have been thoroughly done, if not overdone, but Wainright's formidable colonial name plus the lack of true publicity about him indicates a real service that might be done.

In the first place, we can skip the name. It is one that has been for generations associated with both the army and the navy. As far as this Wainright is concerned, from the day he struck West Point, nobody ever called him or thought of him by any other name than Skinny. Except in formal address, nobody thinks otherwise still.

He was in my company of cadets and I think I never saw a figure at the same time so grotesque and amusing. He was very tall. His wrists stuck out from his cuffs a foot and to make matters more unbelievable he had a roommate who looked like a twin.

But the name did not altogether derive from even this. It was in the earliest days of Briggs or Webster "Oh Skinnay! Come Over," and Wainright was pure boy. The nick-name was a natural. From first classmen to plebes and later on from generals to private soldiers, I never saw a man who didn't like Wainright. After leaving West Point we joined his dead father's regiment, the old First cavalry. There I served side by side with him for many years. Incidentally part of that service was over the very ground where he is fighting now. He knows it better than most Americans.

Wainright, all his life, has been 100 per cent soldier. He worked, dreamed and played at it, and put everything he had into being outstanding. Even MacArthur has nothing near his record and his experience, and considering his years, no officer has.

He has gone with honor through every school which the army has in which to teach the profession of arms, including the highest position of staff and command in the grim school of war. He is one of the best horsemen, riflemen and pistol shots in the army. He does not know what fear feels like.

But Skinny never seemed consciously seeking advancement in any way to annoy his comrades. It seemed all in the day's work. He managed to keep all his friends and to remain a good companion in any group, from the hairy packers of his father's Indian-fighting days to the swankiest military hand-shakers.

The name Jonathan Mayhew Wainright will go on the rolls of honor but it will be "Skinny" Wainright who put it there. In no army are there two better men than MacArthur and Wainright. What a shame it will be to this country if, regardless of excuse, they are abandoned with their commands through want of reenforcement and equipment after having been pushed so carelessly into such a trap.

PREPARES TO PUT CEILING ON CIGARETS

Henderson Acts After Talks With Firm That Hiked Tobacco Price.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Price Administrator Leon Henderson, overriding objections of the American Tobacco company, that an increase was justified by rising production costs, today prepared to enforce a ceiling on cigaret prices.

Contending that the ceiling is necessary to prevent a general increase in prices, he declared that his action would "cancel" the advance in price of 57 cents per 1,000 cigarets announced last week by the American Tobacco company, makers of "Lucky Strike" cigarets.

Henderson's action followed a three-hour conference with top officials of American Tobacco yesterday, at which company representatives refused to back down on their price advance, and declined to delay the increase, which would raise the price of Lucky Strikes from $6.53 to $7.10 per thousand, until the Office of Price administration had completed a study of the factors behind the price rise, Henderson declared.

According to Henderson's version of the conference, "the company presented only limited data in justification of the price advance, and urged, in part, that it was designed to maintain earnings in face of higher corporation income and excess profits taxes."

Taking issue with this report, George W. Hill, president of American Tobacco, declared that he presented evidence at the conference that the entire amount of the price increase represented higher costs, without additional profit.

"Costs of leaf tobacco, materials, supplies and other items, exclusive of increased corporate taxes, have increased in excess of the price increase," Hill declared.

Company officials also contended that the company's position under the anti-trust laws would be prejudiced if they voluntarily acceded to the request that the price increase be rescinded.

They explained, however, that they would abide by a formal ceiling issued by Henderson. For that reason, Henderson stated, a ceiling would be imposed.

Suits Follow Crash Fatal to Two on 'Bloody Six.'

The death of two Ashland youths in a traffic accident Nov. 30 on the "Bloody Six miles" of U. S. Route 42 northeast of Mansfield today resulted in the filing of two damage suits for $10,000 each in Richland county common pleas court.

The actions were filed by the administrators of the estates of Lester H. Hesson, 19, and John Beuford Ziegler, 17, who were fatally injured in the crash. Both suits ask damages from Maynard G. Sams, Mansfield, said to have been driving the car which figured in the collision with the one in which the two youths were passengers.

One suit was filed by Mrs. Clara Hesson, mother of the Hesson youth, and the other by Edna M. Ziegler, administrator of the Ziegler youth's estate. Atty. Harold E. Andrews, jr., of Ashland, represents both plaintiffs.

The two victims were riding with Robert Emperio of Ashland when his car skidded and was struck broadside by the car driven by Sams, according to officers who investigated the accident.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR B. B. STEMM

Mansfield Council President In 1896 to Be Buried In Cemetery Here.

Funeral services were to be held at 1:30 p. m. today in Bloomville, west of Mansfield, for Bervery Burnett Stemm, former Mansfielder, who died there Sunday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Sievert.

Mr. Stemm, who was 87, was president of Mansfield city council from 1896 to 1900 and was deputy county treasurer from 1901 to 1905, serving under Charles Bromfield, father of Novelist Louis Bromfield.

He had been a member of the Mansfield I. O. O. F. lodge for 48 years.

Born in Hagerstown, Md., Mr. Stemm was the youngest of 11 children. He was married in 1882 to Addie Hershiser, who died in 1913.

In addition to Mrs. Sievert, another daughter, Mrs. C. R. McMeeken of Cleveland, survives, as do seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Stemm had spent much of his time in recent years in Mansfield, though living in Bloomville since the death of his wife.

Funeral services were to be conducted at the Shook funeral home at Bloomville by Rev. Frank Zartman of Mansfield, and the body was to be brought to Mansfield for burial, at about 3:30, in Mansfield cemetery.

Observe New Year Day At City Hall With 'Open House'

Municipal office-holders, elected and re-elected in November, will hold "open house" for the public at the municipal building on New Year day from 9 to 11 a. m.

Members of the new city council and other elective officials will greet friends and party members in an informal get-together.

Cigars, cigarets and refreshments are to be served in the short reception.

Republicans are expected to dominate the meeting because of the November landslide which brought eight of them into office. Only five Democrats were approved by the voters in last month's election.

Councilman C. N. Shultz, Republican council leader, said today that council would not hold its usual organization meeting on New Year day since the first council meeting of the year will be held next Tuesday.

VETERAN DIES

Man, 95, Was Ex-Department Comander of Ohio GAR

CAMBRIDGE —(AP)— The name of Theodore Wells, colorful former Ohio department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, was erased today from the roll of the state's surviving Civil war veterans.

Wells, 95, died last night at his home here after a brief illness. Wells was the last Civil war veteran in Guernsey county and commanded the Ohio G. A. R. department in 1937-1938.

WASHINGTON GETS FIRST REAL BLACKOUT EXPERIMENT TONIGHT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The nation's capital, in a mid-holiday lull that has followed Prime Minister Winston Churchill's departure for Ottawa after his historic conferences with President Roosevelt, gets its first real blackout test tonight.

Homes will be darkened, street lights turned off in part of the city and all ordinary civilian activities halted when the air raid sirens blow sometime between 7 and 9 p. m. The blackout will continue for 15 minutes.

Since the war started the capitol dome, Washington monument and the White House have been blacked out each night.

Elaborate instructions have been issued for motorists to pull to the curb, leaving keys in their cars so that they can be moved if necessary; for pedestrians to walk—not run—to the nearest shelter; for streetcar and bus passengers to walk to the nearest building to get indoors; for business and industrial establishments to keep blinds drawn and use interior lights only where necessary.

Officials explained that they were unable to turn off all street lights because no master switch exists. Where the lights are not off, they will be dimmed.

Test blackouts were held in many cities along the Atlantic coast last night. At Norfolk, Va., all of the important military establishments of the Hampton Roads area, including the Norfolk navy yard and the army's Langley Field, were darkened. The blackouts in most cases lasted 45 minutes.

ONE DAY LEFT

Deadline on Personal Tax Payments Nears.

County Treasurer Charles C. Payne warned taxpayers today that they have only one more day to pay personal property taxes without penalty.

With the payment deadline set for Wednesday afternoon, the treasurer said collections so far total $134,249, leaving approximately $37,000 still due.

He said early payments today which were not included in the total figures were above the average for the past few days and receipts are expected to show a marked gain today and Wednesday.

Receipts to date include $112,223 in general personal taxes and $22,026 in classified personal levies.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I NEVER thought I would find myself going out on a limb about a Mickey Rooney picture, but this is the day, chums, and here I go. I have just seen a preview of a little movie recently run up by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer called "Babes on Broadway," and if it is not what Variety calls "socko" and the more refined reviewers call "sheer entertainment," then I have suddenly become softened by an excessive dose of the holiday spirit, or Love Comes to Andy Hardy's Chief Heckler.

Kilgallen

Anyway, it is a fine picture. Judy Garland is in it, which is always a step in the right direction, and it will probably come to be known as the movie in which Mickey Rooney imitated Carmen Miranda. The music is bright, the material is grade A, and it is the kind of film you are in a mood for after reading headlines all day.

In short, Mickey, will you marry me?

* * *

Oddest hobby I know of is Edward Trevor's. He makes swords by hand when he's not singing. An old Spanish custom in his family. . . . Silliest of the new war song titles is "Goodbye Mama, I'm Off to Kokohama." Really! . . .

It's nice to have a week with two musical shows in it. Eddie Cantor's "Banjo Eyes," and "The Lady Comes Across" . . . Wonder what's happened to those funny hats masters of ceremonies used to wear? . . .

Charming custom (and probably very useful) is the one observed by Leone's Restaurant on New Year Eve. At midnight they park an old fashioned milk wagon drawn by two nags in front of the place, and as each celebrating patron exits he is handed a bottle of cold milk.

Jimmy Van Heusen's new song, "Absent Minded Moon," is a pretty tune . . . You will be breathless to learn that I have observed a shift in popular phraseology among the elite. "Da-a-a-rling" as a form of greeting among cafe socialites seems to be going into an eclipse, being replaced by "Swe-eee-tie!" I thought you'd like to know . . .

The score of this year's Yale show, "The Waterbury Tales," was exactly three times as good as the scores of three musicals which dared the Broadway boards in the not too distant past. Sensationally good lyrics, the writers of which I would suggest some of our producers get in touch with . . .

I'll be sorry to see the Christmas decorations leave the shop windows and the front yard of El Morocco and the lobby of 21. The holiday season always makes Manhattan look like such a place of bright and gleaming treasure.

It's amusing to observe the shifting attitudes of the night club set in the matter of civilian defense.

On the day of the fake raid, they were genuinely alarmed, impatient because there wasn't bombproof shelter on every corner; mad at Mayor LaGuardia because he hadn't called on them personally to give them the lowdown on just when the Germans were really coming over. When none came, the attitude changed to a relieved: "Well, you see. I knew there wasn't any danger. Hitler's not completely crazy."

Then apparently they studied a few maps and read a few raid instructions, and now they are somewhere between the attitude that there won't be any bombers overhead and the feeling that perhaps it would be well to be prepared—and thoroughly prepared — for them anyway.

With America at war, fingerprinting is becoming a common practice. The identification room of the Mansfield police station is jammed these mornings with plumbers, truck-drivers, meter-readers and other workers, who go in and out of industrial plants frequently. These workers are having their fingerprints and photographs taken so that guards at the plants might identify them more easily and accurately. E. C. Fuller, identification officer, estimated that he has taken the fingerprints of more than 150 persons since the United States and Japan went to war.

Several cities have sent representatives to Mansfield to study the city's parking meter system ever since their installation last year but now they're coming to study the Mansfield system for filing meter violations. Walter Rice, Akron municipal court clerk, along with Elmer Zook, state examiner formerly stationed here, and several other Akron representatives were in the city today examining the police parking meter violation file with the view of setting up a similar one for Akron. Police have issued about 15,000 tickets for traffic violations in the 13 months the meters have been used and have collected fines on approximately 5,000 of them.

Population of the Richland county jail which dropped to one of the lowest marks of the year just before Christmas has almost doubled in the past three days. The population trend usually follows the weather changes, increasing as the weather gets colder, officers pointed out. The jail now has 22 inmates as compared with 12 last week. County authorities are sure that crime picks up in the winter because some of the transients want warm quarters during cold weather, but there's nothing the officers can do about it.

Parents Rescue Children as Blaze Levels Home.

GANGES — Fire, believed to have started from an overheated coal stove last night routed Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Frisby and their two small children from their farm home two miles northeast of here and burned the small cottage to the ground. No estimate was placed on the damage.

Awakened by smoke which filled the first-floor bedroom, Garrett smashed a window and lifted his wife and children to safety. Before help could be summoned, the residence with all the family's belongings had burned to the ground.

Attired only in night clothes the family was taken to the home of relatives in Shiloh. The cottage was located on the A. C. White farm just off the Rome-Greenwich road.

U. S. AGENTS SET TO CRACK DOWN SWIFTLY

Ready to Act Where Cameras, Other Forbidden Items Are Not Surrendered.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — With the west coast's 10,000,000 citizens warned to be especially alert for enemy raids on fifth column action over the New Year holiday, federal agents in western states moved swiftly today to crack down on any Axis aliens who have not complied with the order to surrender all cameras and short-wave radios.

Up and down the coast, thousands of expensive pieces of photographic and radio equipment had been turned in to police stations by the deadline of 11 p. m., last night. San Francisco police collected more than 3,000 items, Los Angeles 2,800, and Oakland 1,250.

Many Japanese, German, and Italian aliens hastened to surrender guns and other weapons as well as the articles specifically named in the attorney general's order. One Berkeley Jap turned in a four-foot-long ancient Japanese saber.

A Japanese camera dealer in San Francisco went out of business after surrendering 46 new cameras.

Federal authorities indicated that the camera and radio ban, ordered for seven western states after the army reported spies were active with short-wave radios, will be extended this week to cover the rest of the nation.

Enemy aliens who have failed to comply with the order face immediate internment.

FBI agents and operatives of the federal communications commission meanwhile were engaged in an intensive drive to locate and confiscate any authorized or suspected radio transmitters—spurred by the new Japanese radio technique of introducing phoney "panic flashes" into American news broadcasts to the Far East.

Coast cities, meanwhile, prepared to celebrate New Year Eve in a strictly curtailed fashion.

With blackouts always imminent, the gathering of crowds in the streets was banned in most cities, and citizens were urged to do their celebrating indoors. Authorities also appealed against the use of sirens and other noise-makers which might conceivably cause false air raid alarms or cause a real alarm to be disregarded.

In California, liquor sales to army officers and men in uniform, except between the hours of 6 p. m., and 10 p. m., were banned for the time being.

All army and navy posts were ordered to be especially alert over the holiday period.

Night Spot Offers Free Shaves For New Year Parties

NEW YORK —(AP)— From New York's glittering night clubs came word today of elaborate plans to offer New Year Eve frolickers such choice services as free shaves and hangover cures.

The pace in these spots reaches a peak at the turn of the year and the proprietors, rubbing their hands at $20 per person tops, take no chances on unhappy customers (or on having none at all).

Lures include a barber and full tonsorial equipment, installed in one place for the benefit of those who wish to freshen up a bit as the night wears on. Another is a "hangover bar."

An oyster bar has ordered 100,000 oysters to toss into its famous hangover stew. One club plans to park a milk wagon outside, with an attendant handing a bottle of milk to each departing celebrant.

Three chauffeurs will be on hand outside another spot to lend assistance to motoring guests. In some places, cash awards await patrons contributing the best New Year resolutions.

JUDGE BEGINS BUSY SESSION

Grants Three Divorces And Dismisses Fourth Case On First Day.

Judge C. H. Huston began a busy three-day period in common pleas court yesterday by granting three divorce decrees and dismissing a fourth divorce case.

More than 20 cases, most of them involving divorce actions, were scheduled for hearing from Monday through Wednesday to enable the court to dispose of as many as possible before the end of the year.

Decrees were granted yesterday to Edna M. Brown from Charles F. Brown, Alice M. Bender from Carl L. Bender, and Marie Merritt from Emory Merritt. In the Brown and Merritt cases the grounds were neglect. Both neglect and cruelty were charged in the Bender case.

Judge Huston dismissed an action brought by Frank Fischer against Bertha Fischer when the plaintiff failed to appear for the hearing. He had charged wilful absence in the suit.

Dancing Spectacle.

Fred Astaire and Rita Hayworth dance together for the first time as film partners in "You'll Never Get Rich," opening Wednesday at the Park theater and showing as the New Year eve attraction at 11:30 p. m. Astaire plays a theatrical dance director forever trying to extricate Robert Benchley, a producer, from entanglements with chorus girls. Baby Sandy and Edward Everett Horton in "Bachelor Daddy," is the co-feature.

Custer's Last Stand.

"They Died With Their Boots On," a spectacular picture based on the life of General George A. Custer and his famous "Last Stand," opens a week's run at the Ohio theater New Year eve at 11:30 p. m. Starring Errol Flynn in the role of Custer the picture presents an all-star cast including Olivia de Havilland, John Litel, Walter Hampden and Sydney Greenstreet. The story begins with Custer's entry into West Point military academy, continues through his service in the Civil war and culminates in the massacree at Little Big Horn. Greenstreet appears as Lt. Gen. Winfield Scott and Litel plays General Sheridan. Raoul Walsh directed.

Desperado Adventure.

"Belle Starr," the technicolor production showing the adventures of the southern girl who cast her lot with a gang of cut-throats after her home had been fired by northern soldiers, opens New Year eve at the Ritz theater at 11:30 p. m. The picture casting Gene Tierney in the title role with Randolph Scott as "Sam Starr," continues through Saturday. "Married Bachelor," with Robert Young and Ruth Hussey is the second attraction.

Western Thriller.

Henry Fonda has the leading role in "The Return of Frank James," opening today at the Majestic and ending with the special New Year eve showing. "Long Shot," with Gordon Jones and Marsha Hunt is the second attraction.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

CASH SALES ON STOCK MARKET BEAT TAX LINE

Issues Generally Fall In Recovery Side But Some Fail To Follow Trend.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stocks generally edged over on the recovery side of today's market although exceptions were plentiful.

Cash sales were numerous, especially by those who wished to make sure of recording transactions for income tax purposes before the year-end. At the same time, tax liquidation appeared to have dried up considerably and the opinion was expressed that most of this was accomplished in yesterday's speediest session since May, 1940.

Attracting mild early bidding were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Western Union, Sears Roebuck and Douglas Aircraft.

Backward stocks included Bethlehem, Kennecott, American Can, Montgomery Ward, DuPont and Air Reduction.

Market analysts scanned the compilation of the federal reserve board which placed commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Dec. 24 at $6,792,000,000, an increase of $23,000,000 over the preceding week. The aggregate exceeded that of a year ago by $1,781,000,000.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bromfield To Speak—Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield will speak at a noon luncheon meeting of the Akron City and Country Farmers' club, Jan. 12, at the Akron Y. W. C. A.. His topic will be "Our Wasted Natural Resources."

Reports Theft—E. H. Stauffer, 729 Highland avenue, proprietor of the Franklin Auto Body shop at 14 North Franklin avenue, reported to police yesterday that 20 spark plugs valued at $10 had been stolen from the shop sometime Sunday night or Monday morning.

Autos Ransacked—Three automobile owners told police last night that their autos had been ransacked while they were attending an evening training sessions in the machine shop of Mansfield Senior high school. Harry E. Fry, 542 Woodland avenue, Harry Bowman, 155 West Fourth street, and Delmar Oaks, 217 Lexington avenue, said that a carton of cigarets, a box of cigars, a flashlight, an automobile robe and some tools had been stolen.

Finger Injured—Mrs. E. E. Brest, 598 Highland avenue, was treated at General hospital yesterday for lacerations and contusions suffered when she caught the middle finger of her left hand in a washing machine wringer, according to hospital authorities.

Foil Burglary Attempt—Fred Holl, 606 Bigelow road, manager of the Goodrich Tire shop on East Fourth street, told police that employes working on the year-end inventory chased but were unable to catch someone who broke the lock on a basement storage room in an attempt to rob it.

Billfolds Lost—Steven Schiffel, 81 Waring avenue, told police yesterday that two billfolds containing $63 had been stolen from his home while he and Mrs. Schiffel were on a week-end trip. Schiffel said that the wallets were in a metal cabinet in the kitchen of his home when he left Saturday but that upon his return last night he learned that they had been taken.

Assessed Traffic Fines—William D. Mitchell, 155 West Prospect street, was fined $2 and costs yesterday in municipal court after he had pleaded guilty to failure to stop at a stop sign on State Route 30-S near the city limits. Mitchell was arrested by state highway patrolmen. Acting Judge H. H. Schettler suspended the fine; R. E. Bratschie, 544 South Main street, paid a fine of $2 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of failure to stop at a red traffic light. He was arrested by Mansfield police.

traffic squad members will take over the task of collecting receipts from the parking meters. Although all legislation concerning the traffic squad has repeatedly stated that the traffic patrol will make the collections, the receipts have been collected most of the time by Lloyd Kochenderfer, special parking meter inspector.

Kochenderfer's appointment has been continued several times. Democratic councilmen, many of whom exercised their power for the last time last night, said that they had approved the appointment of two additional patrolmen only with the understanding that the patrol would make collections in the future.

Funds for the payment of Kochenderfer's salary will be exhausted on Dec. 31. If he is to continue his task of collecting receipts, action would have to be taken by the new city council next Tuesday.
